

Prémiový úkol č. 14

Zadání převzato z <https://interestingengineering.com/youre-a-genius-if-you-can-finish-these-13-brain-teasers-without-a-mistake?>

Here's a bit of a head-scratcher, though it's a fairly easy brain teaser to get us started. This brain teaser is taken from Henry Ernest Duduney's 1907 book 'Canterbury Puzzles', simplified by us into modern English.

"I thought I was finally free, but I had forgotten that I still had to cross a deep ditch before I could really escape.

Source: Henry Ernest Duduney's 'Canterbury Puzzles'/Public domain

"The ditch was 10 feet wide, I could not even attempt to jump it, especially as I had sprained my ankle in the escape attempt.

"Looking around for a tool that could help in my escape I found eight narrow planks of wood lying together in a pile. With only these, and the planks were each no longer than 9 feet long, I finally managed to escape by making a bridge across the ditch.

"How was this done?"